

SEEING LIFE with JOHN HENRY

by George V. Hobart

John Henry On Tipping

SAY! did you ever make up your mind not to do any more tipping? And have you noticed how quickly you're forced to take the make-up off?

In a Big Town nowadays tipping is as necessary as a traffic cop. Only by the aid of one or both can you make any progress or get anywhere.

And the battle cry in each case is "Hands up!"

It's so in this country today that before a thoughtful man cushion-caramors through the merry-go-round doors of a swell hotel he has to leave his pocket-book on the sidewalk if he doesn't want to lose it.

On the other side, across the Big Pond, if a hotel employee does you a little favor and you slip him tuppence ha'penny or a pfennig he will smile back at you and be much obliged for five minutes.

But in this country if you tip anybody with a couple of pennies the chances are you'll wake up in the nearest hospital and find a kind of deathbed but not very pictorial nurse leaning over you and whispering "Keep calm now, keep cool and calm!" The doctor says you will recover everything except your watch if he can find a small piece of the medulla oblongata which was removed from the northeastern part of your bean when the bellboy soaked you with the ice-pitcher!"

It takes a brave man to save his money these days.

Hep Hardy is one of those reckless tip-tossers. He thinks that all silver money should have a smooth surface, thereby making it easier to slip a coin to a waiter.

He is what the laurelines would call a copper boy of prodigality.

Heps out backsheesh like an absent minded farmer sowing grain.

Heps trail through a Big Town looks as though the cashier of a five and ten cent store was walking to the bank and had a hole in the canvas bag.

When Hep starts out to pound a public road with his ruffly-cart all the waiters in every hash-foundry within sound of his siren fall flat on their faces and yell "Hallelujah! pay-day here again!"

Peaches and I dined with Hep at the Saint Aspiration Club last evening.

Hep likes to dine there because the waiters are French and when he tries to say "Good evening!" in their native tongue he insults them so bitterly he has to sprinkle the room with tip-money in order to square himself.

Hep loves to squeeze into a French cafe, grab a French menu card, and in a confidential tone give an order like this to the French waiter: "Avec le beaucou pomme de terre. Donne moi le eau chaude; Je vols me raser. Avez get a move on you!"

In a French hour and a half the French waiter hurries back with a culinary melodrama wherein each swallow is a thrill and every new

One of Effendi Bey's lieutenants made up to look like Ivan the Terrible, rode up to our table to inquire if a waiter had taken our order. Hep told him no, but Ivan couldn't believe it. Ivan was firm in his disbelief until Hep gave him money, then he saw the light and went joyously away from there.

Presently a waiter arrived who in some other incarnation must have been a pirate on the Spanish Main. He had a chin which was divided against itself, and a forehead which was retreating hurriedly on the fourth speech.

One look at Captain Kidd and I knew that Hep's desire to die poor but popular would be realized.

All the time the Captain was taking our order he was sizing us up and hoping in Portuguese that Hep's eyesight wasn't good so he could short-change him.

Finally the deadly Rover of the Seas 1915, a suit was instituted in the Fayette Circuit Court by J. L. Vallandingham and others against the Burley Tobacco Company. The plaintiffs in this suit have made in their pleadings charges of mismanagement, fraud, corruption and neglect against the officers of this Company, and some of these charges have been made specific.

On August 30, 1915, the Executive Committee of the Burley Tobacco Company passed the following resolution:

WHEREAS, a suit has been filed in the Fayette Circuit Court by J. L. Vallandingham and others against the Burley Tobacco Company charging fraud and malfeasance on the part of the officers of this Company, and asking the Court to dissolve the Company;

WHEREAS, it is important to the stockholders that these charges be fully investigated with the strictest impartiality in order that their truth or falsity may be clearly established and without the enormous expense incident to court proceedings;

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Executive Committee of the Burley Tobacco Company that each of the stockholders be notified that the persons instituting the charges shall be required to bring them before the annual stockholders' meeting to be held in Lexington, Kentucky, on October 5, 1915, for their consideration and action, and

WHEREAS, many of the stockholders will be unable to attend said annual meeting, and it is important that they be represented by a Proxy Committee to act as a proxy for the stockholders in order that the stockholders may act independently and without favor to any individual;

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that we request E. K. Renaker, of Harrison County, Glave Goddard, of Mercer County, and Chas. L. Land, of Fayette County, to act as a Proxy Committee for those stockholders who can not attend in person, and we urge all such stockholders to send their proxies to said Committee with the assurance of belief that they can be trusted by the stockholders to act solely in their interest, and that said Proxy Committee will be expected to act without the slightest partiality toward any officer of this Company, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that a full and complete financial report of the Company's business be made at said annual stockholders' meeting, the report to be furnished to said Proxy Committee, or any other committee which the stockholders may appoint to make a thorough and exhaustive investigation of the books and affairs of this Company, in order that the stockholders may know the exact truth concerning these charges, and the condition of their Company.

The undersigned, E. K. Renaker, Glave Goddard and Charles L. Land, requested by said resolution to act as a Proxy Committee for stockholders, consented to so act, and caused a letter to be issued from the office of the Company to each of the stockholders apprising them in a general way of the charges made against the officers of their Company, and that an opportunity would be afforded at the annual stockholders' meeting to present these or any other charges.

This Committee, after meeting and considering the situation, decided to make an investigation of the charges made in the above suit prior to the stockholders' meeting and to lay before the stockholders the results of their investigation.

The officials of the Burley Tobacco

Company have given this Committee and C. W. Banta, of Louisville, Ky., the expert accountant, employed by them, unrestricted access to all of the books and records of the Company. The Committee had before them a summary of the charges made in the Valandingham suit, and have undertaken to investigate these charges. The result of their investigation is set out in the following report, the particular charge being first stated and then the findings of the Committee given thereon:

L.

The plaintiff's charge that the Burley Tobacco Company in handling, warehousing and drying tobacco belonging to the Company, charged the growers excessive fees and that the profit of $20,000 was by reason of the excessive and unfair charges.

Upon this we find that prior to the organization of this Company and prior to the organization of the Burley Tobacco Society tobacco growers were compelled, under existing conditions, to ship their tobacco to warehouses in Louisville, Cincinnati and other large central points far remote in most instances from the homes of the growers. The tobacco was thus shipped in hogsheads, the grower was required to pay the freight, drayage, warehouse fees, insurance, inspection and a great many other fees and costs. Upon the organization of this Company it was determined that the growers who pooled with this Company should be charged a less fee for warehousing than they had been charged under the old system, and that this fee when thus collected was to belong to the growers themselves, that is, to their company, and was to be applied in the affairs of their company. All sums thus collected by this company from this source was for the benefit of the growers who were poolers. It was in effect, as if the money was taken from one pocket and put into the other, because if this sum had not been collected in this way, the expenses of our organization would have had to have hands, whereupon Effendi Bey began to him, "In my harem—my dinky little harem!" and turned us over to Murad Pasha, one of his lieutenants.

Murad Pasha led us to a table and stood there—counting the spoons—until Hep could find another pocket containing money.

Then Murad Pasha, clutching his share of the plunder, with many bows and obeisances, faded out of our lives and Giovanna Handstandts, the omnibus, began to splash water into our air.

Hep doesn't know it, but while he's spilling that Schenectady French all over the tablecloth the waiter is getting a stone bruise on his palate from holding back his Parisian laughter.

Hep would wrinkle his map with anger if he heard me, but I've been present when he has blurted out some of his French idioms with the ostifated air of a manify you!

On one memorable occasion he ordered ham chops and a baked potato in French. The waiter bowed, said, "Out, M'sieur!" and brought him a bowl of vegetable soup and the morning paper.

That's how good that lad's French is—poor nut.

As a matter of fact Hep knows exactly nine ordinary French words, including n'est pas and avec plaisir, but he has memorized the name of every street in Paris.

So when Hep exhausts his nine ordinary words he begins to use the streets. He rushes, regardless of speed limit, all the streets of Paris. Out to Vaugirard, over to the Battignolles, to Cligny, by rues and side streets to the eastern Boulevard Beaumarchais and St. Denis, then across lots to the western Boulevard des Italiens, then into the high and off through the Place de la Concorde, around corners on one wheel into the Champs Elysees and on and on with the muffer off—it's immense.

However, as I was saying some time ago, Peaches and I dined with Hep and he handed us a few lessons in the gentle art of tipping, he surely did.

From the very moment we entered the aristocratic beaver he began the giving of alms.

The attendant at the revolving doors impudently asked a nice old lady to step into the lobby, cut off from communication with the world, while he waited for Hep to dig in his jeans for the customary quarter.

A hall-boy, paging a missing husband, stopped short as our party approached, arranged his face in imitation of a Spanish mackerel, saluted Hep and received ten cents for his trouble.

Battling Bill, the house detective, loomed bulkily in our pathway and without warning suddenly stooped down to pick up a pin. Hep did a hoodoo over the tame Cop's feet and when they both came smilingly to the surface Battling Bill clutched a fifty cent piece in his Westphalian and the procession moved on.

Then from some dark recess or niche in the wall something in brass buttons and with a whisk broom in its hand darted out like a pickel-pear and the whisk broom at Hep.

The latter pointed a quarter at the something in brass buttons, whereupon the brass buttons and the whisk broom and the quarter darted away again, thereby bringing to a conclusion the incident of the pickel-pear.

As we approached the coat room Hep, desiring to show no partiality, would slip a coin to each of the waiters.

And when he had the bill he gave her a new hat she wouldn't have to give it to the come-tax gatherers. Whereupon she was glad and showed her gum chewing instruments. Then she glanced at the inside of my hat to see if it was expensive and sighed deeply as we passed on.

At the door of the soup room we were met by Effendi Bey, the head waiter.

Hep whispered something to Effendi but the Bey wasn't listening. He was too busy with his own problems to know just what Hep wanted.

We stopped in the drug store at our home corner to mail some letters and even there Hep found a weighing machine and tipped the scales.

There are ginks like Hep in every Big Town, going through the night like a cyclone through the sub-treasury, scattering pocket money right and left like so much chaff simply because they want to be looked upon as High Class Sports.

And it's hard to follow their act. They're not satisfied for the Sensible Lady who are willing to pay for services rendered but half bad at the myriad of outstretched paws like the Pathways of Enjoyment.

I was talking to Miss Patterson about it. Miss invested a machine for removing sunburn from pickles and made a fortune.

He paid for a postage stamp which stuck to his pocketbook some nine years ago. But he has the pocketbook and he still can look at the stamp and consider it an asset.

Miss is such a stingy loosener he leaves you at one eye so as not to waste the other.

The boys call him "Putty" because he's next thing to a pain.

If you ask him what time it is he takes off four minutes as his commission for telling you.

"Tipping?" said Miss; "what do you mean by tipping?"

"To give a bit of coin to a waiter or those who do you a service," I explained.

"Oh!" said Miss; "I've heard about it, but I don't do it. I don't know any waiter well enough to give him money to take home to his wife. She might meet me afterwards and thank me for it and my wife might hear about it—that's risky work."

This Committee, after meeting and considering the situation, decided to make an investigation of the charges made in the above suit prior to the stockholders' meeting and to lay before the stockholders the results of their investigation.

tract to purchase the Elgin Oaks property for $28,000; that he failed to have the title examined before binding the Company to take the property; that after this contract was made, it was discovered that the title to the property was defective and it was necessary to pay an additional $5,000 to get possession of the property from the tenant; that all this was done fraudulently and secretly.

It is charged that the Company purchased the Orchard Park property for $20,000, and that no part of this property was necessary for the Company's use and that the officers of the Company had no authority to handle the property since its purchase go as to derive any benefit therefrom.

It is further charged that the warehouse owned by the Company in Lexington cost $70,000 and the value of the property is $10,000; that these prices were grossly excessive and constituted a wasteful expenditure of the Company's money.

Concerning the purchase of the High Oaks property, we find upon investigation that this property was bought after full and careful consideration by the Executive Committee. The purchase price agreed upon with the owners of the property was $35,000. The title to the property was examined and by reason of the fact that one of the interests was owned by a minor it was necessary to institute a suit to sell said property, and it was bought under a decree of court. At the time a contract was made with the owners of the property for its purchase the Executive Committee had full knowledge of the fact that the property was then under lease to Dr. George P. Sprague for a period of five years. An additional amount was paid to the tenant to

USES FOR TOMATOES.

Ripe Tomato Preserves.—Ripe tomatoes for preserving should have the skins removed by having them plunged for a few minutes into boiling water. Cover eight pounds of ripe fruit, cut in halves or quarters, with seven pounds of granulated sugar, and set aside overnight. In the morning a syrup will be formed. Put this on to boil until it is clear, skimming off the foam which rises. This skimming is necessary in order to have a transparent syrup and must be done, of course, in all sugar syrups. Now put in the tomatoes and let them simmer for twenty minutes or so. Then drain, cool and pack into jars which have been carefully sterilized. Then let the syrup continue to boil until it is rich and thick. Just before taking out add to the hot syrup the juice of three or four lemons, depending on the size of the lemons, the proportion being about one lemon to every two pounds of preserves. Don't add the rind. Now pour the syrup over the fruit in the jars and seal. Caps and covers, of course, should be sterilized as well as the jars.

Green Tomato Preserves.—Small, uniform sized green tomatoes make the best looking preserves for this, and they are most attractive when cooked without being either peeled or cut up. To eight pounds of fruit measured into the preserving kettle add seven pounds of sugar and a little salt and water. If you don't care to save the seeds, add a few whole ones. Sterilize the jars and pack them.

Tomatoes With Sauce.—Cut in rather thick slices without peeling, then roll them in flour and fry in butter, salting and flavoring them as you fry. Turn with a griddle cake turner, and when both sides are done take out and lay on a hot platter. Now pour milk slowly on the flour left in the pan, stir continually to prevent lumps, brown and pour the sauce this made over the tomatoes and serve.

BRILLIANT CONVENTION PLANNED

For Kentucky Equal Rights Association
TO BE HELD IN LEXINGTON IN NOVEMBER

Foreign Speakers. Business Meetings and Social Events.

The twenty-sixth convention of the Kentucky Equal Rights Association will be held in Lexington Nov. 8-10. Features of the meeting will be addressed by Mrs. Philip Snowden, of England, and by Madame Rosika Schwimmer, of Hungary; a banquet at the Phoenix Hotel on Tuesday evening, with short toasts from all the principal speakers of the convention, from the "writing women" of the state and distinguished Kentucky men; an automobile ride, ending with a reception at Ashland—the home of Henry Clay—given Monday afternoon to the delegates and distinguished visitors; and a general session on a platform discussion of "How the Federation Can Aid the Woman Suffrage Movement," led by Mrs. Morris Bartlett, President of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs; discussion and reports of press work and of city and rural suffrage activity.

PETITIONS TO LEGISLATURE. If you are willing to circulate a petition for the submission of woman suffrage to the voters to be presented to the next Legislature, apply to K. E. R. A. headquarters, 726 McClelland Building, Lexington, and petition will be furnished.

MRS. PHILIP SNOWDEN, the noted English suffragist, will make the opening address at the suffrage convention in Lexington the night of Monday, Nov. 8. When Mrs. Snowden spoke in Lexington two years ago many people who could not get seats stood throughout the address. Many others were turned away because they could not even find standing room in the hall.

Mrs. Snowden is the wife of the Honorable Philip Snowden, a member of the House of Commons, and at present one of the committee appointed by Hon. Lloyd George to control the sale of liquor in the munitions area. Mrs. Snowden, though a young woman, has been speaking in public since her husband was returned to Parliament in 1905. In the last eight years she has averaged two hundred public addresses a year, delivered in England, in this country and in Australia. Mrs. Snowden is now giving a month's campaign speaking in New York State. She is the author of a book on "The Feminist Movement."

MRS. R. A. McDOWELL, Of Louisville, Recording Secretary of the K. E. R. A., is the wife of a prominent Louisville attorney, who is President of the Kentucky Men's League for Woman Suffrage. Mrs. McDowell, as Chairman of the suffrage tent at the recent State Fair, secured over 1,500 signatures of men and women as believers in suffrage.

A TOAST.

Drink to the dawn
Of a glorious day.
The day that is not remote,
When the men of this State
Shall honor the date
And give to women the vote.

MRS. J. B. JUDAH, Of Louisville, Treasurer of the K. E. R. A., has brought not only a brilliant mind, earnest conviction and fine enthusiasm to the suffrage cause, but a most valuable experience as a club worker and as an officer of the local and the national Jewish Council of Women.

NATIONAL SUFFRAGE ASSOCIATION TO MEET IN WASHINGTON, D. C.

The National American Woman Suffrage Association will hold its annual meeting in Washington, D. C., at the New Willard Hotel, December 14-19, immediately after the opening of Congress. Delegates from Kentucky to the national convention will be chosen at the state meeting of the K. E. R. A. at Lexington.

Fish Where the Fishing Is Good!

The best fishing is in this town.
If you don't believe it read the home paper for bargains.
You'll get the biggest returns for your money right here in town.
Besides, you'll boom the town by keeping the money at home.

She Will Recover

So her doctor said. Her friends and neighbors felt sure of it too. They have used Peruna themselves and know of its merits. That old cough that had worried her for years and years, for which she had taken all sorts of cough medicines, has disappeared. Peruna is doing the work. She will recover. Indeed, she has recovered.

Her name is Mrs. William Holmann, 2764 Lincoln Ave., Chicago, Ills. She had suffered with catarrh of the bronchial tubes and had a terrible cough since a child. As she got older, her cough worsened. She coughed both winter and summer. Had to sit up at night. Could not sleep. "But all that has left me now. Peruna has cured me."

There are others, and there is a reason.

Mr. Noland Honored.

Attorney John Noland, of this city, has been signalized by being appointed District Deputy of the B. P. O. Elks for the Eastern District of Kentucky, having received the commission last week. Mr. Noland is an enthusiastic member of the local lodge of Elks, and has been a consistent worker in the order and the honor conferred upon him is most worthily bestowed. There are two District Deputies in the State whose duty it is to visit the various lodges in their respective districts and keep the good work moving. We heartily congratulate Mr. Noland on his appointment.

NOTICE TO THE VOTERS

Sept. 30, 1915
To The Voters of Madison County

I am addressing you in the interest of my candidacy to represent the county in the next Legislature. I wish to say I have always had a desire to represent the county in that body, because of my varied experience in matters pertaining to what I deem to be the best interests of the State.

In the first place, I was born and reared upon the farm and am still a farmer, believe I know what is the best interests of the farmers, and at the same time, believe there should be nothing passed through and enacted into legislation that would prove detrimental to other callings or legitimate business of any kind; and having been engaged as a merchant and having a general knowledge of business and the needs of the general public, I believe I can represent all classes fairly and to the best interests of the State.

For many years I have taught in the public schools of the county, as to my qualifications and ability to represent the county. I refer to those who know me best: I have never in my life tasted intoxicating liquors, and believe in the strict enforcement of the County Unit Law, and favor the enforcements of all laws.

I favor a better taxing system, and lower taxes; longer school terms and few changes in school books; last but not least, I believe in good roads economically constructed.

While I have always affiliated with the Republican party, I am not a partisan and do not entertain bitter feelings for the Democracy, and will greatly appreciate any Democratic aid that may be given me.

I solicit your votes irrespective of party, and if elected, shall endeavor to act honestly in the discharge of the duties that come upon me, doing in every instance what I deem to be the best interests of all;

Yours truly,

G. B. Moores.

Summing Up the Evidence

Many Richmond People Have Been Called As Witnesses.

Week after week has been published the testimony of Richmond people—kidney sufferers—backache victims—people who have endured many forms of kidney, bladder or urinary disorders. These witnesses have used Doan's Kidney Pills. All have given their enthusiastic approval. It's the same everywhere. 30,000 American men and women are publicly recommending Doan's—always in the home papers. Isn't it a wonderful, convincing mass of proof? If you are a sufferer your verdict must be "Try Doan's first."

Mrs. Nelson Ross, 419 Laurel St., says:

"My kidneys were irregular in action and I had pains through my back. At times I was nervous and dizzy. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Middleton's Drug Store, soon made me feel better in every way."

Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Ross had. Foster-Milburn Co. Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—adv.

Taxes Now Due.

County and State taxes are now due. Penalty of 10 per cent will be added if not paid by December 1st. No deviation from this rule. It is the law and will be strictly enforced. Don't allow the penalty to be added and then blame your sheriff. Van B. Benton, Sheriff, 37 of Close Call For Winchester.

Winchester had a close call last Thursday night when a C. & O. freight train crashed into an L. & N. cut of cars which was being switched. Two cars filled with dynamite were reduced to splinters and the explosive scattered several yards, but for some unaccountable reason did not explode. There was enough dynamite in those two cars, had it been exploded, to blow Winchester off the face of the earth.

Wholesome Advice

With the approach of the fall season, the big jobbers and manufacturers will begin to send out their salesmen. Many of these salesmen are going to call on you Mr. Retailer. Here are a few suggestions by which you might open the conversation with them:

Ask them what they will do to help you sell the goods they want you to buy.

Ask them if their firm is going to advertise in the newspapers of your city?

If they reply "No," ask them why not?

Tell them that it is necessary for them to create the demand in your city, among your customers, for their line of goods; otherwise you cannot push their line in preference to those manufacturers or jobbers who create this demand.

Tell them the best way to create the demand is to advertise in the local newspapers, that your customers read the newspapers published here; that you yourself advertise in them; and that you are not willing to spend your money to make their particular brands popular in this town and later have them take the line away from you and give it to your competitor.

Tell them that you favor the goods which are advertised in your local newspapers because you find it more profitable to do so.

This is a mighty good hand to hold. It should be a stand pat one.

TEXAS WONDER

The Texas Wonder cures kidney and bladder trouble, liver and gallbladder, diabetes, weak and lame backs, rheumatism and all irregularities of the kidneys and bladder. It is a safe, reliable medicine and your druggist will be sent by mail on receipt of $1. One small bottle is two months supply. Send for sample. Price 25¢. Send for testimonials from this and other states. Dr. E. W. Hall, 225 Olive Street, St. Louis, Mo. Sold by druggists. Advt.

Money In It.

People should read carefully the advertisements of our merchants in The Climax-Madisonian when they are coming to Richmond to trade. There is money in knowing where to buy.

New Front.

The building at the corner of Main and Second streets, occupied by Stockton's drug store, is undergoing some extensive and much needed improvements. A new modern front is being put in and some other needed changes will be made. When completed it will add greatly to the appearance of this section. Let the good work continue. There are many other buildings about town that need remodeling. Todd & Son are doing the work on the Stockton corner.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Frye Cruse, of Ruthin, are the proud parents of a beautiful little daughter, whom they call Margaret Elizeth.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Agee, of Ruthin, a nine-pound boy.*The Gift Shop.

One of the most up-to-date places in Richmond, is the lovely Gift Shop on West Main, which has recently opened its doors. Here everything of the newest and daintiest, can be found for the well dressed woman and child, and gifts for Xmas, that will please the most fastidious.

Bronston a Winner.

Mr. James M. Bronston, a leading meat merchant, was one of the successful candidates in the primary held at Lexington Saturday for City Commissioners. This is encouraging news to his many friends in Richmond and Madison county. It is a deserved compliment to a worthy son, and we congratulate our old friend upon his success.

Wallace Trial Reset.

By consent the date for oral argument in the case of T. Q. Wallace and Frank Chaney in the Court of Appeals, has been reset for November 12, the case having been originally docketed for argument on October 20. Wallace and Chaney were convicted in the Clark Circuit Court for the alleged murder of Houston Underwood at Irvine last February.

Home For Indigent.

The Grand Lodge of Kentucky Odd Fellows in session at Dawson Springs last week, executed a plan that had been under consideration for the past eight years by establishing an indigent home for Kentucky Odd Fellows, their wives and widows. The home will be located at Eminence, twenty-seven acres of land and suitable buildings having been purchased.

A World Beater.

Recently compiled records show that Pop Geers, the veteran Grand circuit driver, has won more than a $1,000,000 in purses since he began to handle the reins back in 1890. His best season was in 1912, when he totaled $116,370. Ty Cobb, Packey McFarland, and other financial stars of sport will have to keep going at top speed if they hope to equal the record made by the wizard of the reins.

Auto Wreck.

Miss Julie White, of this city, and Miss Barbara Witt, of Irvine, had a very narrow escape while out in a car with two young men several days ago, in Irvine. They were coming at a good rate of speed down the road when just ahead of them they spied a man on horseback directly across the road. In trying to avoid striking him, the machine was buried about ten feet and down an embankment, having turned completely over. Miss Witt was considerably bruised but the other occupants of the car were uninjured.

Card of Thanks.

CLIMAX-MADISONIAN:—Will you kindly permit me to express through your columns, on behalf of myself and church, our very grateful appreciation of the courtesies extended to us by our brethren and kind friends in other churches, who so generously and cordially assisted us in the entertainment of our guests during the recent synod.

Special Edition.

The Winchester Democrat of October 15th, comes out in a special "D. A. R." edition which would do credit to many of our larger cities. The occasion being the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the organization of this splendid body of patriotic women who have not only kept green the memory of the dead, but who have founded schools, and libraries and other charities throughout the North, South, East and West for the living. And so we again congratulate Mr. Nelson on the interesting sheet he has gotten out as a tribute to the women of the "D. A. R."

A Long Tramp.

Oliver and Wendell Stamper, sons of Dr. J. H. Stamper, formerly of this city, but now of Hazel Green, and aged 14 and 11 years, respectively, walked a distance of 116 miles from their home to Lexington in order that they might witness the glories of Barnum & Bailey's Circus. When they arrived in Lexington their feet were so swollen and bruised that they were unable to walk and had to be taken to the detention home, where it was necessary to treat their feet for four days before they were able to walk. They were placed on an L. & E. train and returned to their home without getting to see the circus.—Mt. Sterling Democrat.

Big Democratic Rally.

There will be a big Democratic rally and orators' gale at Jackson, Ky. next Friday. Great preparations have been made for the rally and everybody will be welcome. It is destined to eclipse anything of the kind ever witnessed in that thriving little city.

Mr. Chas. George, drum major, has contracted with the local Campaign Committee, and seventeen members of the Second Regiment Band, of this city, will furnish the music for the occasion.

This is one of the best bands in Kentucky, and the boys will make "the woods with music ring."

Hon. H. V. McChesney Here.

Hon. H. V. McChesney, one of the leading orators of Kentucky, spoke to a large and enthusiastic audience at the court house in this city last night.

McChesney made a matchless address and urged upon his hearers the importance of voting the Democratic ticket from top to bottom. He opposed Mr. Stanley in the Democratic State primary, taking the dry side, and was defeated.

But he takes his Democracy straight, and there were no sore spots on him because of defeat, and Mr. Stanley has no more ardent supporter in Kentucky than the Hon. H. V. McChesney.

Keller-Conway.

Monday morning at 5:45 o'clock at St. Joseph Catholic church in Winchester, Mr. Jerry Keller, of this city, and Miss Genove Conway were united in marriage by Father Hillenmeyer, the pastor, in the presence of a few relatives and friends. The church was beautifully decorated with potted plants and cut flowers. Mrs. B. F. Johnson played the wedding march. The bride's maid was Miss Elizabeth Gregory, of Paris, and the best man was Mr. John Keller, of Mt. Sterling, brother of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Conway, of Winchester, and is a charming young lady. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Keller, of Richmond, and is a popular mail carrier. After the wedding ceremony the happy couple board a train for Cincinnati, where they will spend two weeks honeymooning, after which they will return to this city to make their future home. The good wishes of a legion of friends accompany them through the journey of life, and with each and all the Climax-Madisonian joins in extending hearty congratulations.

Two Die Same Day.

Mrs. G. A. Roy and sister, Mrs. A. F. Bryson, received a telegram Tuesday, October 8, containing the sad news of the death of their brother, William Spurlock, at South Point, Ohio, and a remarkable coincidence was that Mrs. Bryson's husband, A. F. Bryson, received a telegram that evening announcing the death of his brother, Kardon Bryson, of South Point, Ohio, who was killed in a railroad accident on the N. & W. railroad. Mr. Bryson and brother, Alonzo Bryson of Valley View, left with Mrs. Roy for South Point.—Jessamine Journal.

Every Woman Should Know

There are three entirely different kinds of baking powder, namely:

(1) Cream of tartar, derived from grapes;

(2) Alum, a mineral acid; and

(3) Phosphate of lime.

(1) Baking Powders made of Cream of Tartar add to the food the same healthful qualities that exist in the ripe grapes from which Cream of Tartar is derived.

(2) Baking Powders made of Alum add to the food some form of Alum or Aluminum, a heavy metal, wholly foreign to any natural article of food.

(3) Phosphate of Lime is made from rock or by burning bones which by chemical action are changed into a white, powdered acid. It is used in baking powder only because it is a cheaper substitute.

A Cream of Tartar powder never contains Alum or Phosphate.

Every housekeeper should read the names of the ingredients printed on the label and know what she is using.

In Society*CLUB NOTES

Mrs. Jas. A. Mitchell, of the Conservation Committee, is planning to have women by counties, plant the Dixie High way.

Mrs. E. B. Hume, of Louisville, is doing a great deal of research work and club women and others are taking advantage of her services in furnishing data for papers. Mrs. Hume is a member of the Civil Service Reform Committee and is a very capable woman.

Friends of Mrs. T. J. Smith, of the Social Science Section, are proposing her for president of the Kentucky Equal Rights Association, in the event Mrs. Desha Breckenridge refuses re-election in November. The Federation with 24,000 members has endorsed suffrage.

Mrs. Frederick H. Cole, Federation Chairman of the Civil Service Reform, congratulates the Kentucky Federation on its capable Chairman, Mrs. Johnson, of Louisville, and speaks in the highest terms of her systematic and well organized work.

The Woman's Club of Frankfort, held the first of its 1915-1916 meetings Monday afternoon in the club rooms in the old Capitol. Miss Ada Cromwell, the president, made an address and was followed by Miss Elizabeth McFarland, of St. Louis, field secretary of the Young Women's Christian Association.

Four new members were received into the club, Mrs. Hayden Freeman, Mrs. Charles Tiffen, Mrs. Mattie Reach and Miss Elsie Bennett Smith.—Louisville Herald.

In the Louisville Herald of Sunday is a splendid likeness of Mrs. Morris Bartlett, of Lawrenceburg, the president of the Kentucky Federation of Woman's Clubs. In the same paper is a column each week delightfully edited by Mrs. J. H. Dickey, of Louisville, from which the following items are taken in part.

The Paducah Woman's Club has a board of twenty representative men advisory to the Club. This is something altogether new and speaks well for this wide-awake body.

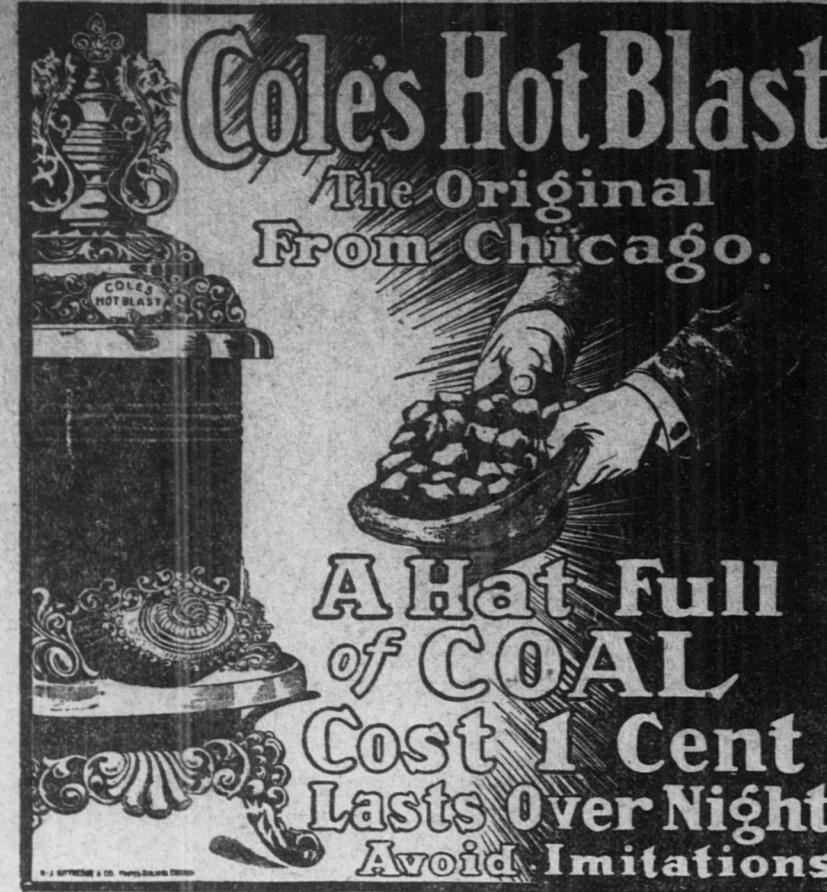

As a token of esteem a lovely luncheon was given these men on Friday by the officers of the Club.

Dr. Rachel Yarro, of Hull House, Chicago, will deliver a lecture before the Woman's Club of Central Kentucky, October 23rd. Mrs. Clarence Williamson is Chairman Social Hygiene and Mrs. LaFerry is serving her second term as President of the Club.

The State Conference of the D. A. R. will meet in Frankfort, Oct. 26-27.

The Richmond Woman's Club meets Monday, Oct. 25 at half past two sharp.

Mr. Tom McCown has been entertaining a very delightful house party this week at his home in the country. Among

And For Three Summers Mrs. Vincent Was Unable to Attend to Any of Her Housework.

Pleasant Hill, N. C.—"I suffered for three summers," writes Mrs. Walter Vincent, of this town, "and the third and last time, was my worst."

I had dreadful nervous headaches and prostration, and was scarcely able to walk about. Could not do any of my housework.

I also had dreadful pains in my back and sides and when one of those weak, sinking spells would come on me, I would have to give up and lie down, until it wore off.

I was certainly in a dreadful state of health, when I finally decided to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I firmly believe I would have died if I hadn't taken it.

After I began taking Cardui, I was greatly helped, and all three bottles relieved me entirely.

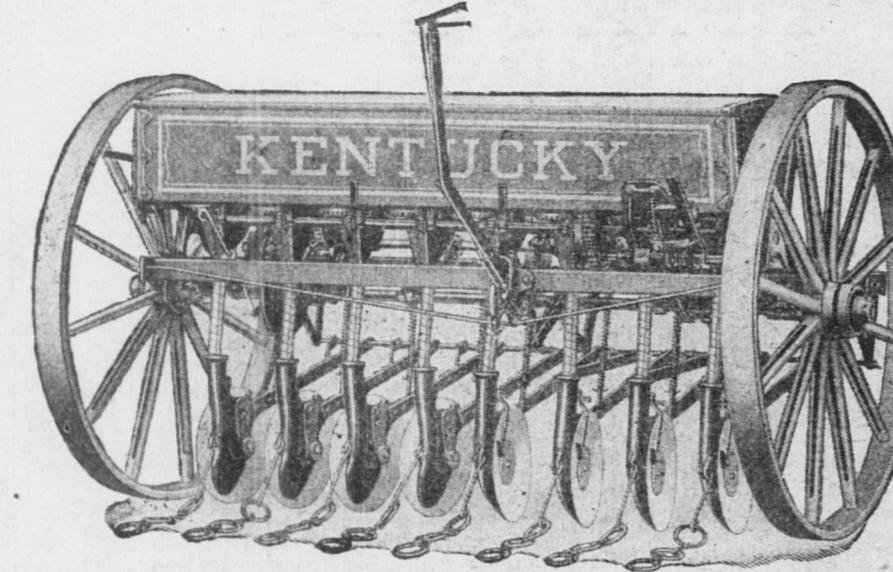

I fatten up, and grew so much stronger in three months, I felt like another person altogether."

Cardui is purely vegetable and gentleacting. Its ingredients have a mild, tonic effect, on the womanly constitution.

Cardui makes for increased strength, improves the appetite, tones up the nervous system, and helps to make pale, yellow cheeks, fresh and rosy.

Cardui has helped more than a million weak women, during the past 50 years. It will surely do for you, what it has done for them. Try Cardui today.

Write to Chattanooga Medicine Co., Ladies' Advertising Dept., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions on the case of 64-pounds. "Cardui Treatment for Women," sent in plain wrapper. J-65

OLD FAVORITES.

SEEIN' THINGS AT NIGHT.
I ain't afraid av snakes or toads or bugs or worms or mice, An' things 'at girls are skeered uv I think they awful nice! I'm mighty brave, I guess, an' yet I hate to go to bed.

Sometimes they're in the corner, sometimes they're by the door, Sometimes they're all a-standin' in the room, sometimes they're a-sittin' down, sometimes they're walkin' round. So silly, and so creepy like they never made before.

Sometimes they are as black as ink, an' other times they're white, But the color ain't no difference when you see things at night!

Once, when I licked a feller 'at had just come down on our street An' father took me up to bed without a bite to eat,

I woke up in the dark an' saw things standin' in a row A-looking at me cross eyed an' pintin' at me—so!

Oh! I was so skeered that time I never slept again.

It's the most awful when I'm bad 'at I see things at night!

Lucky thing I ain't a girl or I'd be skeered to death!

Bein' I'm a boy, I duck my head an' hold my breath.

An' now, oh, so sorry I'm a naughty boy,

I promise to be better an' I say my prayers again.

Grandma tell me that's the only way to make it right.

When a feller has been wicked an' seenin' things at night!

An' so when other naughty boys would coax me into sin I try to shake off the tempter's voice 'at uses me so.

An' when they're playin' for supper or cakes 'at's big 'n nice.

I want to, but I do not pass my plate fr' me, I want to, but I do not pass my plate fr' me.

No, rather let starvation wipe me slowly out of sight.

Then I should keep a-livin' on an' seein' things at night!

—Eugene Field.

"AUF WIEDERSEHEN."

THE little gate was reached at last.
Half hid in lilacs down the lane; It stood wide and, as she passed,

A whistful look she backward cast And said "Auf wiedersehen!"

WITH hand on latch, a vision white,
Lingered reluctant and again, Thinking of her she'd right Soft as the dews that fell that night

She said "Auf wiedersehen!"

THE lamp's clear glim fits up the star,
I sing in delicious pain.

Ah, in that chamber, whose rich air,

To breathe in thought I scarcely dare.

Thinks she, "Auf wiedersehen!"

TIS thirteen years; once more I

The turf that silences the lane;

I smell the lilacs and—ah, yes, I hear "Auf wiedersehen!"

SWEET peace of bashful maiden

She said "Auf wiedersehen!"

THE English words had seemed too faint;

Yet held us tenderly apart—

She said "Auf wiedersehen!"

—Lowell.

"YOU'LL LOVE ME YET."

YOU'LL love me yet, and I can carry Your love's protracted growing.

June reared that bunch of flowers From seeds of April's sowing.

I plant a heartful now; some seed At least is sure to strike indeed.

And yield—what you'll not pluck indeed. Not love; but, maybe, like!

You'll look at least on love's remains, A grave's one violet;

Your look? That pays a thousand palms.

What's death? You'll love me yet!

LOVE IN THE WINDS.

WHEN I am standing on a mountain crest

Or hold a tiller in the dashing spray,

My love of life leaps foaming in my heart.

And plumes in the wild ride of the night,

Flaunts in the face of tempests the large glee

And dashes out fate and welcomes gods to fight.

Ho, love! I laugh aloud for love of you!

Glad that our love is fellow to rough

And tempests, and dashes out the fate of gods.

But hale and hearty as the highland heather:

Rejoices in the wind that stings and thrills,

Comrade of ocean playmates of the hills.

Starting the Day Right

Character forming In Youth.

It was a saying of Froebel's that character of a man or woman is fixed at six years of age, thus putting the formative period very early in the development of the child.

Most mothers do not believe this dictum or ignore it, as they instruct their children to nurses more during those first six years than at any other time. There are, however, an increasing number of women who realize that good habits are easily made and bad impressions more easily made in very early childhood than later on. So now careful mothers are arranging to supervise as thoroughly as possible the nursery of their babies and to take an active share in the training of the little ones.

One modern mother, though possessed of ample means, refuses to employ a regular nurse. She takes entire charge of her two little children, a girl of four and a boy of two. This is not the result of theory on her part, but an outgrowth from her own experience. Brought up in a luxurious household, where she was "hand to foot" to a governess, she was suddenly sent off to boarding school at the age of fourteen.

"I shall never forget," she says, "my terrible mortification at not being able to dress myself properly or even to comb my own hair. I used to cry myself to sleep at night and dread getting up in the morning to encounter that awful problem of getting neatly into my clothes."

Determined that her children shall never be helpless, she has taught these anaemic children in Louisville to dress themselves.

Some years ago Punch had a picture of two small boys and a young lady asking one of them, "How old is your little friend, Tommy?" To which Tommy replies, "I do not know, but I think he must be pretty old, because he can blow his own nose!"

Judged by this standard, the boy of two referred to above would be "pretty old," while the girl would be positively young. It has taken an infinity of patience to get these children to the point of independence which is enjoyed by most children.

The particular mother whose methods are quoted above obtained a kindergarten table such as that on which

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Child In the Moon.

IHAVE no doubt you kiddies have wondered a lot about the man in the moon," said daddy, "but have you ever thought about the child in the moon?"

"Well," replied the children, "Is there a child in the moon?"

"Yes, there is, because what would the man in the moon do without his child? You may be sure that he would be pretty lonely."

"Of course you cannot see this child in the moon, for the man in the moon is so large and casts such a shadow that the child is rather eclipsed by him. He hides behind his father's shadow, though I rather doubt that he likes this very much."

"How about the moon child's mamma, daddy?" asked Evelyn.

"Well," replied daddy, "the mamma is down here herself! They call her Luna, you know. So the family consists of Mrs. Luna and her husband, who is the man in the moon, and their moon child, whom I imagine is a little boy. And there are no other people up in the moon, though it is believed by scientists that once it held lots of other folks like our earth. There are just these three, and they are obliged to spend their time as best they can, especially as they have all the time there."

"Mrs. Luna and her husband, the man in the moon, have grown quite used to being up there all alone, but the moon child, like most children, I fancy, without other kiddies to play with, grows quite lonesome."

"Let me listen to his little wailing voice asking his daddy an old question that he asks quite often through the long years."

"Daddy," asks the moon child, "what's that funny little globe down there, whirling around all the time? What's all the noise? What's all the little things in the water and the little bits of dots hurrying around on the earth?"

"Oh," explains the man in the moon, "I've told you that so often! That is the earth upon which people live, ever so many, and children like yourself, and the little things in the water are ships upon which the people sail."

"Daddy," begs the little moon child, "why can't I slide down to the earth on a moonbeam and play with the little children down there? I'm lonesome!"

"Hush your nonsense!" the man in the moon tells him. "You are so big that you would crush those poor little children all to pieces. Besides, you are so heavy that a moonbeam would break under you, and then where would you be? You stay right where you are, child."

"So, kiddies, the little moon child has to stay right where he is, which is just as well, since he is so big and cannot play with earth children anyway."

A Manly Appeal.
Stanley Asks War Department to Let Capt. Morrow Speak.

To the Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.—Sir: I understand that Capt. Charles A. Morrow has been directed by the department to cancel several engagements to speak in Kentucky in behalf of his brother, the Hon. Edwin P. Morrow, Mr. Morrow the Republican nominee for Governor in this State, in a published interview has laid the responsibility for this order at the door of Democratic leaders in Kentucky and of those in charge of my campaign, and by this thinly veiled inference implied that I am more or less responsible for the canceling of Capt. Morrow's engagements here. Mr. Edwin P. Morrow has denounced this alleged protest of Democrats as "so little and so contemptible as to go beyond the respect of every man who loves fair play." After careful investigation I find that nobody connected with the Democratic headquarters knew that Capt. Morrow was to speak in Kentucky. I certainly did not. No complaint was ever made by anybody directly or indirectly connected with my campaign for Governor. I sincerely hope that it is possible or at all consistent with the rules governing your department, that the regulations governing the conduct of all army officers in this matter, without regard to politics, be waived and that Capt. Morrow be permitted to speak, talk, write or do anything that in his opinion will aid his brother's candidacy. As far as this headquarters is concerned: Mr. Morrow has much more to hope for from this unwarranted and earnest appeal for sympathy than from anything Capt. Morrow may do or say.

A. O. STANLEY.

MRS. CARRITHERS FELT DISCOURAGED

Glad She Took Advice When Husband Said, "Let's Get a Bottle of Tanlac

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 19.—Statement is now being made in regard to the merits of Tanlac, the new medicine that is accomplishing such astonishing result in Louisville. Mrs. Sallie Carrithers, residing at 3846 Grand Boulevard, city, wife of a well-known car builder at the L. & N. Shops, said recently:

"My husband just simply forced me to take this Tanlac, but now I am glad that I took the medicine, as I am one of the happiest women in Louisville."

"I had always suffered from catarrh of the stomach, but my real trouble began when I ate something and had to vomit, causing pain as a result of it. My stomach was in such a bad, sensitive condition that I could not eat anything."

"My husband said to me one day, 'Why don't you try this Tanlac?' I had tried so many things that I felt discouraged and told him I believed nothing would help me.

"He took me for a walk one evening recently, and passing the Taylor-Isaacs Drug Store, he said, 'Let's go in and get a bottle of Tanlac.' He had my arm and we went into the store together and bought a bottle of Tanlac.

"I waited until morning before I began taking the medicine. I took a dose before breakfast, one at noon, and a third at supper. That night I slept more soundly than I had in months. I now have taken two bottles of Tanlac and I feel like I am cured. I am here to get another bottle, though, as my husband insists that I should do so."

"I simply cannot get enough to eat now. I never had such an appetite in my life. I enjoy everything I taste and I digest everything properly. My stomach is in excellent condition and the catarrhal trouble has disappeared. My hearing has been improved. Tanlac is really a very wonderful medicine."

Tanlac, the new preparation, is sold exclusively in Richmond, by H. L. Perry's Drug Store. adv.

CLASSIFIED TAXES.

Whether there is any talk about a lower rate of taxes on intangible personal property is great how it goes up from the owners of tangible property, who affect to believe it a gross injustice. Intangible personality consists mostly of Stocks, Bonds, Notes, Cash, Accounts, Mortgages, and other such evidences of enterprise, all of which are limited by law or custom to a certain percent of earnings. No other personal property is taxed except profits fixed by law. A man may lawfully earn all he can in his store, his shop or on his farm. He may charge what he pleases for his professional services, for his manufactured wares, for his cattle, his hogs and his corn, wheat and tobacco, but when he comes to lending money, which the investment in Securities includes, he is strictly limited to a gross amount never exceeding six per cent, and it is fair to exact half or more of his income for taxes when others get off with perhaps one-tenth of their earnings from other kinds of invested property, farming, professions and business? The argument is all in favor of the money lender, as his capital is essential to all industrial improvement and cheap money greases the wheels of progress and prosperity.

RICHMOND, KENTUCKY

DO YOUR DUTY.

Is Kentucky a Democratic State, or a doubtful State? Is it one of those States which can be always relied upon to cast its vote for democratic principles of independence and for the interests of the people or is it, as some of the National Republican leaders like to claim, one of those doubtful States, which may now and then be garnered by the agents of the big interests and swing by them into the money column?

Now is the time for all Kentucky Democrats to settle that question in a manner that will leave no room for doubt. On November 2nd, the voters of Kentucky will choose a Governor and a complete set of State officers to guide the destinies of the State for the ensuing four years. Let there be no hair-line decision at the polls. The vote in the Democratic primary showed how many Democrats there are in Kentucky. It showed conclusively that Kentucky is a Democratic State, that it is, in fact overwhelmingly Democratic.

It is now the duty of every Democrat in the State to cast his vote for the entire State ticket on November 2nd. Let us take nothing for granted. The eyes of the whole nation are on Kentucky. Three years ago the nation, disgusted at Republican misrule, arose and turned over the stewardship to the Democratic party. Today the Republicans are hoping against hope for a ray of light. They want to shove the thin edge of the wedge in somewhere. Let the Democrats of this State prevent its being slipped between their own ribs.

If there is a small majority for Stanley and the rest of the Democratic ticket in this election, the Republican leaders will claim that the country is returning to the Republican fold. They will be buoyed up to redouble their efforts to regain control of the nation in 1916.

But, a good, old-fashioned, smashing Democratic majority in this year's State election will break their hearts. It will have a powerful moral effect on politics from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico, from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The Democrats of Kentucky must stand shoulder against the common enemy. They should forget the disappointments that came to some of them in the primary. Last year, after Beckham beat him in the primary for the nomination for the United States Senate, Stanley got behind Beckham and stumped the State from one end to the other in Beckham's behalf. The men who supported McChesney and McDermott in the primary should follow the example set by Stanley and show that, in spite of differences within the party, all Kentucky Democrats stand together when fighting Republicans.

A BEAUTIFUL THOUGHT.

The keynote of the ideals of Government that have moved A. O. Stanley during his public career were voiced in a few words by Stanley himself in an extemporaneous speech he delivered at the State Fair in Louisville on September 16th. The gubernatorial candidate was speaking of good roads and during the course of his speech said:

"What has preserved this government for 150 years or more? I will tell you. The plain citizen seated in a cane bottom chair on a rag carpet, before an open fire place, with a Bible on his knees and his family grouped about him, his head bowed, simply and reverently asking God to guide him through the night, and arising in the fear of that same God at dawn, to take up the simple tasks of the day. He votes with no thought of profit to himself, but for the good of his family and the honor of his country and the glory of his God. This is the power upon which this republic rests, and must forever rest."

SOMETIMES.

Sometimes! Yes, SOMETIMES an editor gets a kind word. In a letter from a prominent educator, well known in this community, the following words were read with pleasure:

"The Climax-Madisonian is one of the best county papers that I

A MOUNTAIN COURSHIP

By M. QUAD
Copyright, 1915, by the McClure
Newspaper Syndicate.

The mountaineer and his wife had to go down the valley about a mile to see a sick neighbor, and I was left at the cabin with their daughter, a girl of eighteen. As soon as she had cleared off the supper table and while I sat on the doorstep smoking she put on a clean apron, arranged hair a bit and dressed very smartly. "I'm comin' to see you bright and early," she said, "and I'm comin' to see you bright and early." She was very skeeter and—and—and—and—"

"Do you mean that your young man is coming?" I asked.
"Reckon him is."
"And he's bashful?"
"Him can't skeerely abide dad and mom."

"I see. He'd be scared off if he found me sitting here. Well, I'll take a walk and be out of the way."

"No, no! You're perfectly proper. I'll go out and sit down on the log, and you stay right yere."

"Oh, that's it? Well, don't you mind me in the least."

The log was only thirty feet away, and she hadn't been sitting there over five minutes when "him" appeared. He was a young man, very bashful and awkward. He sat down about ten feet away from her, and it was about five minutes before either spoke.

"Who's him?" queried Jim as he nodded his head in my direction.
"Stranger, gwine further up," she answered. "You han't no call to be skeered of him nor nobody."

"Who's skeered?"

"Reckon you is."

"Shoo! Never was skeered in all my life. Linda, does your old dad like me?"

"Reckon he do."

"And your mom?"

"Reckon she do."

"And, Linda—"

He stopped there for a long, long time, and Linda coughed and giggled over his embarrassment. By and by she said:

"Dad says you come powerful night kin' of b'ar last week."

No reply.

"Man says you took up them ten acres of land above Parker's."

No reply.

"Has you lost your tongue, Jim?" she asked after a long silence.

"Co'se not; I was thinkin'," he replied as he heaved a deep sigh.

"Reckon I know what 'twas. Te-he-he."

"Reckon you don't."

"Co'se I do. Dad likes you, mam likes you, and I—"

That log suddenly contracted again and brought them close together, and Jim's arm stole around Linda's waist as he finished the sentence for her with:

"And we's gwine to be jined in the fall and live on them acres! Linda if him wasn't back thar in that doah I'd shorely hug you, I would."

I got out of "that doah" and took a look around. If Jim didn't take advantage of the opportunity Linda's looks belied her when I returned.

The girl gave me good night and passed to her room, and a little later the old folks arrived back.

"Stranger, was that a fell'r yere a-sparkin' Linda?" whispered the father as they sat down beside me.

"Of co'se there was—of co'se," said the wife.

"There was a young man here," I replied.

"Did Linda call him Jim?"

"She did."

"Of co'se she did—of co'se," added the wife.

"Did they set together?"

"Yes, on the log."

"Would you say, stranger—would you say that that was buy' thar?" asked the husband.

"Why, I sat there smoking and looking into the laurels, and I neither heard nor saw much. By and by I got up and walked away."

"Of co'se he did—of co'se," said the wife.

"Yes, he un would git up and walk away," said the wife.

"Would you like Jim for a son-in-law?" I asked after a bit.

"Stranger," replied the man as he laid aside his pipe so as to have both hands free to gesture with, "that yere young man has killed a b'ar with a knife."

"And a whoppin' big b'ar at that," added the wife.

"He has shot three wildcats, sub."

"Shot three and skeered off a fourth."

"And he has swum the Cumberland river, sub."

"And it was in flood too."

"And he made the elephant run when the last circus cum along, sub."

"And it was a whopper of an elephant, too—for suah it was."

"And, sub," continued the husband as he stood on his feet, "that yere Jim can outoller, outrun, outrassle, out-fight and outlif any critter of his age fur fifty miles around."

"Of co'se he kin—of co'se," added the wife as she also stood up.

"And, sub, in a yar' or two' we are goin' to send him to the legislature and he's goin' to be a good man around these mountains with a plug hat and a cane. All this, sub, and you axes me if I'd take him for a son-in-law!"

"Of co'se we woud—of co'se," said the wife.

Nine Babies in 24 Months.

About 15 months ago a Mrs. Drury, of Spencer county, gave birth to five children, 3 of whom are still living and healthy. Two weeks ago she presented her husband with four more little weebirds—making nine she has had in less than two years. This is a little ahead of anything we have heard of before and proves that while Spencer county may not be as productive agriculturally as some other counties, she certainly cannot be headed when it comes to raising children—Frankfort Courier.

This is a very prolific crop of babies, and there is no danger of race suicide ruining the country as long as babies are produced in such a wholesale manner. However, the above beats anything that has come to our notice. We knew of a young couple in Bourbon county who had been married five years and had nineteen children, and everybody thought they were doing pretty well, but the Spencer county couple surely will take the top for babies.

Big Meeting.

The Central Kentucky Fox Hunters' Association is holding its annual meeting at Winston, Estill county, this week. The meeting will probably be the most largely attended of any within the history of the Association. All day Sunday members and their dogs were passing through this city on the way to the chase, which began Monday. Many handsome prizes will be given to winning dogs. Madison county is well represented at the meeting.

Second Crop.

One day last week Mr. Jerry Newby, of the Baldwin neighborhood, brought to this office several apples of the Carolina Red June variety, which were of fair size and the second crop gathered from the trees this year. Mr. Newby informed us that the trees were young and the first crop produced this year was a splendid one, and not long after the crop had been gathered, the trees began to bloom again, and the second crop was a fairly good one.

Tip for Society Editors

Society editors may find inspiration in the following from the Russville News:

The bride and groom presented a regal spectacle, never equaled since the proud Cleopatra sailed down the perfumed lotus-bearing Nile in her gilded pageant to meet Marc Anthony, while all the world stood aghast at the unheard-of triumph. To describe the bride's costume beggars the English language; and the imagination fails faint and feeble before the Herculean task. She was gorgeously arrayed in a calico dress and a pair of lace curtains floated like a dream about her figure.

Brother Turley's Hogs

Recently Mr. Wm. B. Turley, of this city, sold to a Tennessee party three fine blooded Red Berkshire hogs at a handsome figure. These hogs were exhibited at the Tennessee State Fair last week and won the first premium in their class. "Brother" surely raises some splendid swine, being the "McKee" of Madison county.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

Next Sunday morning a service in honor of the "Bible, the World's Greatest Volume" will be held. All lovers of the Holy Book are urged to be present. At night the sermon which was to have been preached last Sunday to students will be delivered. All students and teachers are cordially invited to be present.

At the Christian Church Sunday morning a beautiful musical program was rendered. The pastor, Dr. E. B. Barnes, preached a special sermon, "The Fading Life," which was most highly commended. In the evening the sermon was addressed to the students of the city, the same being largely attended.

The C. W. B. M. was held at the Christian church on Wednesday afternoon last week at which time the newly elected president, Mrs. J. R. Pates presided. The leader of the evening was Mrs. N. B. Deatherage. The program was excellent, the feature of the meeting being the presence of Dr. E. B. Barnes and Dr. C. K. Marshall, the former giving a graphic account of his trip to California and the National Convention. The hostess of the day was Mrs. John Baldwin and Mrs. N. B. Deatherage.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

A Teacher's Training Class, open to all who wish to enter, will be organized next Sabbath, in charge of Miss Roberts.

The Sacramental Service, previously announced but postponed, will be held in connection with the morning service next Sabbath.

The session of the church will convene twenty minutes before service to meet with and receive applicants for church membership.

UNION MEETING.

At the Christian church Sunday night the ministers of the city united in a most interesting meeting, the occasion being the distribution of some bibles by the Gideon Society. Mr. Pritchett, of New York, was present.

Mr. Pritchett, of New York, was present representing the society and sang a solo with much expression. Another musical feature of the evening was a quintette. The Misses Telford rendered a harp, violin and cello number. The music of the choir was unusually good.

Revs. Telford, Clark, Reynolds and Bruce gave entertaining talks on the subject of the Gideons in placing them in the hotels and boarding houses.

After the meeting, a large number of bibles were placed in the rooms of the hotels and boarding houses of the city.
